12. Essay:

Failure is the most important lesson in life. A person whoever are successful now were the biggest failures someday long time ago. In fact we must should fails in life to learn the real meaning of life. We learn much if we fail rather than we pass. Life teaches more and more if we fail more. The thing is that you must should have patience and you must should be able to encourage and self-motivate yourself in such a way that the successful life is not so far, just you need is to try and focus one more time on your goal. Failures may be small but success will always be bigger. The one who can't rise again after falling is a loser but the one who rise again with full confidence even after falling for many times is a real winner. The choice is yours whether you want to become loser or winner. There is a saying "You become what you think to be". If you think i can do this or i will be successful, you already bring positive vibes in you and this positive vibes will create positive energy and nothing can stop you from achieving your dreams and goals in life. I have started own consultancy and construction company after my bachelor with much hope and expectations. Later, i was unable to meet my expectations due to lack of technical manpower, due to lack of investment, due to lack of instruments and so on. I had better job offers from big companies but i denied and later someday i felt regret though i didn't give up and keep continuing my own consulting service. I did study why and how it is becoming difficult for me to run my business. Later on I keep maintaining distance with those who puts negative vibes and thoughts, I keep increasing my networks, I keep myself active, I keep meeting peoples, I keep encouraging myself. After 1 years of struggle I become stable. I set up my office in prime location, hired few members for smooth running of office. In 1 year someday I feel kind of depressed because of difficulties and problems I encountered with in between. But I somehow managed to overcome the difficult time. Later what I understand was never give up in difficult times, have patience, big things are on the way just try to grab them in right time. Success always come late but come with lots of happiness. Successful person are those who have lots of patience, self-motivation and self-satisfaction. So from this what I learn was keep believing on yourself, keep doing hard work, keep moving forward don't let yourself down because of others, don't think bad for others and for sure good things will happens for you always. Winners are those who never give up in any situation just because they hope that good thing will happen.
