12. Essey:

When the war on Syria began, I was in high school and I did not understand anything about what was happening in our country, during it we suffered many crises, bad living conditions, insecurity and stability, and despite all of this, we stayed strong and did not give up our dream that Syria would return like it was, and as a result of what we are going through, my depression appeared. And then my cousin passed away, and here was the beginning of my suffering, as he was an important person in my life and the closest to my heart, and losing him was very difficult for me, so my depression and sadness increased and I entered a state of severe depression. Year after year, my depression and sadness increases as my social relationships have decreased and I have no friends left, I became do not like to sit or talk to anyone even my family and spend most of my time in my room alone or sleep for a long times and do not like to go out of the house or even go to the university and this led To a shortening in my studies and my grades began to get down. I reached in my depression a stage that I hated all people and hated myself and became nervous and my psyche was difficult and my mood increased, which led to people run away from me even people who close to me until I graduated from university then I felt a great emptiness in my life and I began to ask myself what I did in my life? Why did I reach this stage? Then I started trying to get rid of my depression, so I started working in the field of graphic design, and I moved away from everyone who hurt me or tried to exploit me in times of weakness and depression, and I got closer to the only ones who stood beside me and were with me despite everything, and they are my family, my life began to improve, and my depression greatly diminished ,my ambitions increased, and my dreams grew up, my social relationships improve, and the number of my friends increased, I became feel calm and relaxed. I learned from what I went through that life is short and we must take advantage of it with joy and happiness and that work can be an important reason to get rid of depression and that parents are the only refuge for a person and their love cannot be reduced and they are the only ones who will not leave you In times of your weakness and sadness, they will always be by your side.
