12. Essey:

My strong conviction is – life is water-stream flowing towards its destination despite all odds and obstacles making its' surrounding a fresh and juvenile look. In course of our living life, there must be ups and downs. We have to admit that nothing comes easy. Keeping feet in the University campus and getting admission as a student of Mathematics under Science Faculty of University of Dhaka, I dreamed to be a teacher, which to me is very interesting till today. Now I am an academician in the Bangladesh University of Professionals since 2015. In arriving up to this level, for me it does not read smoothly. I got married in 2013 just after completing the post graduate from Dhaka University. Thereafter in 2016, I have blessed with a daughter. I was living with in-laws that inherited lots of hindrances. But those never stopped me from my ambitions to be a teacher. I know hard times are unavoidable in life, but positivity and motivation can take one to the opportunity to learn how to see shadows from a genuinely more enlightened perspective. Keeping in mind that avenues may open before me to lead further, though the problems I am now facing may not last long. Despite difficulties, but at the inspiration of my seniors, when an opportunity arrived, I prepared a proposal for my M. Phil, which my supervisor had appreciated loudly. Being motivated I submitted my papers focusing the importance of Mathematics in the field of Applied Science, to the National Institute of Science & Technologies under the Ministry of Science and Technologies, Government of the Peoples' Republic of Bangladesh for a fellowship. My proposal has not only been accepted as usual, but it has been considered as one of best proposal amongst all candidates over the Bangladesh. This paper, I have to admit, has changed the gambit in my life. I have not only awarded the fellowship, thanks God, Sheikh Hasina, the Prime Minister, Government of the Peoples' Republic of Bangladesh has presented a memento in auspicious gorgeous ceremony. Honestly speaking, at the time of receiving this presentation from the hands of the Prime Minister of the country, I was so much overwhelmed and rejuvenated, as if the sun-ray in the winter morning dispersing fog bring light for the dull world to revitalize. This event of joy and aspiration has definitely showed me the rays of fresh light and aspiration to march forward with the hope of better family life and academic career. At this point of time, the past achievement has made me much more confident about obtaining the Ph. D Degree. I am very much aware that the Ph. D Degree would give me a bigger opportunity for research, investigation and implementation. Therefore, I am of the opinion, a Ph. D degree is very much essential to, not only for the development of my career, rather it is essential for my students and the institute as well that I belong to.
