12. Essay:

The essay I decided to address is about a topic that caused personal growth in me and to begin with this discussion I would like to mention the idea that motivated the development of a new concept of myself: personal satisfaction. In 2018, I was still doing undergraduate studies at the university, it was my last year and that moment I realized something surprising. Maybe not everyone thinks like me, but I realized something surprising. Maybe not everyone thinks like me, but I realized that most people only studied to get a good grade or to show off a good average, thus leaving aside studying to learn and continuing to cultivate knowledge for personal and professional development. However, I realized that I also had a bit of such behavior, so I immediately decided to do something about it. In the same year, I had also started to interact with people from the countryside, so with a group of friends we volunteered to solve some of their problems that were within our reach, one of them, for example, the mishandling of the solid waste. With the knowledge obtained in the specialty of biotechnology, we were able to teach them a way of how to obtain natural or biological fertilizers using their organic waste as raw material. Such was the personal satisfaction obtained at that time that we began to look for more people from the same locality and with the same problems in order to continue promoting the culture of sustainable development. I clearly remember how people were very interested in learning, despite the fact that many of them had never been to a university, the effort they put into it was very gratifying to appreciate. We even encouraged adults to please continue to share such knowledge or techniques with future generations, so that this new practice obtained will not be forgotten in the future. I will always remember the gratitude we received after finishing a day, for example, they invited us to share with their families some exquisite typical dishes of the community and we also enjoyed parties drinking exotic drinks typical of the place. We also had the opportunity to learn about some activities that they did on a daily basis, for example, river fishing, agriculture, animal husbandry, among other rural activities. Without a doubt, after such a beautiful sociocultural experience, upon finishing university I came to the conclusion that it is useless to receive a great education if you do not share it with other people, and the best reward that can be received is gratitude.
